

Part to Tool

Robotmaster can be used for programming part to tool applications.

Advantages for part to tool applications

- Automatic programming for part to tool applications from CAD models and subsequent modification to adjust for cutter size or tool contact location with minimal effort
- Part to tool orientations can be managed automatically to optimize the program for minimal wrist rotation and maintaining constant orientation between part edge and tool
- Ability to program, simulate and use multiple tools

